Dear Mr. McCandlish:

This is to tell you how very much I regret my inability to be with you at the annual meeting of the Virginia State Bar Association at White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, this week. I had looked forward very much to the opportunity of being with you to renew many old acquaintances and to make new ones. Unfortunately the pressure of my work here makes it impossible for me to join you.

Would you please convey to the Virginia State Bar Association my regrets and all good wishes.

Sincerely,

Allen W. Dulles
